Eiger and White Spider

The Eiger is a mountain located in the Heart of Switzerland. Eiger, whose name means Ogre, is appropriately named for the severity of its towering North Face.

The White Spider is not a name for the face, but an ice field of the face, that lies near the top, and is reached via the Traverse of the Gods.

It is so called, as the snow filled cracks radiating from the ice fields, resembles the legs of a spider.

The Eiger Chalet and White Spider Trademarks are symbolic of the eight legged White Spider and the Bernese Alps where the Eiger is located.
